Is Sanford Harmony still a free program?

Yes, through generous funding from entrepreneur and philanthropist T. Denny Sanford, Sanford Harmony is still available at no cost to teachers, schools, districts and nonprofit organizations.

Are you still providing physical kits?

We will no longer be supplying no-cost physical kits. All Harmony resources can now be fully accessed via our Online Learning Portal.

Can we still use the physical kits we already have?

Yes, you may continue to use any physical kits/materials you have, but we recommend accessing Harmony from the Online Learning Portal to experience all of the updated content and new features.

Are there new digital versions of the physical games coming to the Online Learning Portal?

Yes, while the Harmony curriculum can be fully accessed on the Online Learning Portal today, all games and resources will be print-friendly by March 1, 2020.

My school/district doesn't have the technology required to utilize the Online Learning Portal in the classroom.

Sanford Harmony is a teacher-led program, which does not require students each having their own device. The mobile-friendly design of our Online Learning Portal means that an educator can lead Harmony instruction, even from their personal device. All instructor lessons and student activity sheets are also print-friendly.

Are you moving to a 1-to-1 (student-to-device) technology model for Sanford Harmony?

Sanford Harmony remains an instructor-led program. The lessons and activities are still designed to be facilitated by a teacher, and won't be directly accessed by a student through a personal device.

What training and support are you offering during this digital transition?

To support this transition for both new and experienced Harmony partners, we have put together comprehensive training options, including live training webinars, on-demand training, and live online training.
